If there is any virtue in newspaper commendation, and if the endorsement of the public at large, for the past ten years, is to be taken as a criterion, then "Human Hearts," which will be presented here to-night, is certainly entitled to take rank as the "great American drama." During the many years that "Human Hearts" has been presented in this country, the praise accorded it by newspaper critics and the general public has been universal. There have been no dissenting voices; the verdict of approval has been unanimous. Even rival managers have graciously acknowledged that "Human Hearts" is a "mighty good play."
